

Summer Activities to Continue Learning

- Get a Library Card in your child's name. Visit the Library weekly. Take advantage of the summer Library activities. Activities are schedule evenings as well as during the day.
- READ, READ, READ TO YOUR CHILD! Depending on where you child is in reading, you can stop at simple sight words and let them read them.
- Take advantages of the Vacation Bible Schools in the areas. These are great activities for kids and great for socialization and continued education about physical, scientific, nature, and spiritual character building.
- Use simple math questions that go along with daily activities. (how many more? If you take away this, how many do you have?)
- Socialization – keep your child involved in activities with other children.

Sight Words for Summer!

Attached are a set of sight words to work on during the summer vacation. You can print these larger, if you prefer, and then cut them out and store them in a zip lock bag. Set a time once a day to review the words. Just drill on two to three words at a time, then add more once they have mastered those.
